

Respect In Our Organisation: Working Well Together

Overview

Respecting each other is an integral part of working well together and ultimately organisational success. But respect can mean different things to different people. This bite sized training session unpicks this vague concept into a positive, thought provoking and incredibly empowering 90 minute workshop, supporting individuals in your organisation to work well together.

By using our simple model of respect (which works on a home or work level) individuals will recognise behaviours in themselves or others and be able to identify how to strengthen relationships to the optimum level of working well together.

Who should come on the course?

Employees, managers, tenants or students. The workshop is suitable for any type of organisation with more than 5 individuals.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of the session you will:

- Know what respect is and why we all need it.
- Have a deeper awareness of how perceived respect for each other dictates how we feel and behave.
- Be able to identify positive and negative consequences (personal and organisational) when respect for each other changes.
- Understand the tangible benefits to your organisation of its people working well together
